

Figure 3: Posterior predictive distribution of the structured, statistical model thought to give rise to the human data in the prior elicitation task. The close alignment between model and data suggests the assumption of a structured prior is warranted.